

Introduction

This Fact sheet is about complaints about housing/ transfer applications. It should be read together with our general booklet about our service. You may also wish to read our homelessness leaflet which may also be relevant.

Councils and housing associations must have a written policy explaining how they will offer their properties taking into account the person's needs.

There are stricter legal requirements on the Council e.g. there are certain people that it has to give a reasonable preference to (a head-start) including: homeless people; those living in overcrowded or unsuitable housing; people who have certain medical needs or disabilities; this also applies to transfers.

Housing associations can be more flexible in who they offer accommodation to e.g. they might refuse to offer you housing if you already owe rent arrears to another landlord.

The Council's or housing association's policy will set out how it will decide who gets offered housing first e.g. a points scheme; band scheme/quotas; or a bidding system for certain properties.

What the Ombudsman can do

He can look at:

Whether your housing application has been dealt with properly;

- Whether the Council or housing association has properly applied its policy to your housing application e.g. are you in the correct band;
- Whether the organisation has told you how it has dealt with your housing application e.g. has it sent you a letter detailing any points awarded;
- Whether the organisation has delayed dealing with changes in your situation which you have told it about e.g. you have been asked to leave your home;
- Why your application may have been suspended e.g. has the Council followed the correct procedure if the reason(s) for suspension is your behaviour.

What the Ombudsman cannot do

He cannot:

- Force the Council/Housing Association to give you a house, or any particular house that you may want.
- Change a properly made decision about your housing application.

Issues to bear in mind

There are not enough houses for everyone who wants one. The policy may limit the number of offers you can be given or restrict the areas you can choose on your housing application.
