

Planning and Environment Decisions Wales (PEDW)

Factsheet

Introduction

This Factsheet is about complaints relating to the Planning and Environment Decisions Wales. It should be read together with our How to Complain webpage, available on the 'Making A Complaint' tab.

The Planning and Environment Decisions Wales is a part of the Welsh Government. Its main work is the processing of planning and enforcement appeals and holding examinations of local development plans.

It also deals with a wide variety of other planning related work, including:

- Listed building consent appeals;
- Advertisement appeals; and,
- Reporting on planning applications called in by the Welsh Government.

The Planning and Environment Decisions Wales also deals with environmental appeals and rights of way cases.

What we can do

We can look at complaints about:

- Poor administration or procedural shortcomings in the Planning and Environment Decisions Wales' decision making;
 - Shortcomings in the way the Planning and Environment Decisions Wales has dealt with your complaints, for example where it has failed to respond or has not dealt with your complaint within a reasonable time.

What we cannot do

We cannot:

- Consider the merits of decisions taken by the Planning and Environment Decisions Wales, including its decisions on planning appeals and enforcement appeal decisions, which can only be challenged through the courts.

Issues to bear in mind

Complaints about individual planning decisions made by local Councils in Wales are not matters for the Planning and Environment Decisions Wales. These complaints should be directed to the Council concerned in the first place and could be a matter for us. For further information, see our Factsheet on Planning Applications. This can be found on our website, given below.

Further information

Further information about the Planning and Environment Decisions Wales, including their complaints procedure, can be found on its website:
